

Gregory M. Gotwald
Associate

Gregory M. Gotwald focuses his practice on litigation and appellate work in the areas of environmental law, insurance coverage, and complex commercial law. Greg's undergraduate degree in chemical engineering and his law school employment experience as a Law Clerk for the U.S. Department of Justice, Environmental and Natural Resources Division in Washington D.C. assist his advocacy in these matters. The Indiana Lawyer (published by the Indiana Business Journal) named Greg as a 2009 "Up and Coming Lawyer." Also in 2009, Rose Hulman Institute of Technology recognized Greg as a Distinguished Young Alumni. Greg received his Chemical Engineering degree from Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in 2001 with minors in environmental engineering and economics. He obtained his J.D., cum laude, from the Vermont Law School in 2004. Among other community activities, Greg has served as a volunteer and Board Member of Child Advocates, Inc.
